The image contains text in a non-Latin script, which appears to be in a South Asian language. The text is not clearly legible due to the quality of the image. Without being able to read the actual content, it is not possible to provide a plain text representation of the document.